

America's dairy farmers work tirelessly to produce food for your family and ours.

Dairy's Foundation supports those farmers – their work and their ongoing education – so they can maximize their efforts and resources.

We count on your gift to complete the circle of making available first-class, affordable education that puts safe and nutritious food on every table.

who we are

Dairy's Foundation raises funds and awards grants that support the dairy farmers producing food for your table.

who we impact

Dairy producers, industry professionals and the general public benefit from the programs and resources funded by Dairy's Foundation. When the dairy community has access to best-in-class, innovative training and ideas, their everyday work sustainably produces wholesome food — in a way that nurtures animals and people, and protects water, land, and other natural resources.

how we do it

The programs we help fund are as varied as the people being impacted. From children to young adults to outgoing generations training up the next, Dairy's Foundation donates to the causes that fill needs not already being met by other organizations.

Our goal is to enhance the skills of current dairy producers and develop the leaders of tomorrow — all while strengthening and enriching the connection between consumers and producers.
